

Amount of eligible advance

- The maximum advance available under the Advance Payments Program (APP) for wheat, durum, barley and all other agricultural products in one production period is $400,000, with the first $100,000 interest-free. This includes all farming operations in which the applicant has an interest.
- During the six-month production period overlap (April 1 to September 30) the maximum amount that can be outstanding is $400,000. This maximum includes any outstanding non-defaulted previous production period advance payments.
- The maximum advance that an applicant can receive using crop insurance coverage is based on anticipated or actual seeded acres and provincial crop insurance coverage levels.
- The maximum advance that an applicant can receive using AgriStability coverage is the lesser of anticipated or actual seeded acres and the estimated yield OR the government's portion of the producer's selected coverage (66.5 per cent) of the AgriStability reference margin.
- Applicants can receive 60 per cent of the total eligible amount based on anticipated seeded acres and the remaining portion after seeding.
- Applicants who have completed spring seeding can provide their completed provincial crop insurance Seeded Acreage Report and receive the entire eligible amount. If using AgriStability coverage, an applicant can receive the entire eligible amount by declaring on the advance application that the land has been seeded.
